

Great Brittaines Noble and worthy Councell of WArr

Printed for Thomas Archer, in Poper-hall Alley, and are to be sold at his shop in Popes head Alley, over against the signe of the Rose - Rose.

The God of Warre lookes downe, and from his ciues Matter (by Armes) to heighten Englands State,
Shoots smiles of ioy, to see what Policies
Are read(here) in this Schoole: This Councell-Bord, Happieft of Kings is ours: who in his Throne
(Vpheld by tenne braue Souldiers) does afford Sits, Kysing Peace, enyoying her alone:

More then all Christian Kings doe yet when Drums
Beate at his Neighbours Court gates, forthwith comes
This heape of Worthies; an by them tis knowne.
Th' Souldier fights abroad, but these at home
Teach him to fight well: From these ten Heads come
Those streames of Councell, by whch War does stand
How to guard Strangers, how to guide our owne. As saf as in the Ocean does this Land.
